Dr. Lisa Aubrey Associate Professor, African and African-American Studies and Political Science, Arizona State University, USA and a second year Fulbright Scholar at the University of Yaounde I, Cameroon will discuss unearthing the little known site of the enslavement trade called Bimbia in SW Cameroon for the Global Learning Center of Wichita's annual United Nations Banquet. She will connect this enslavement site to the history of the Transatlantic Trade of Enslavement, and her tracing of almost 200 voyages of ships used to transport the enslaved to over 20 countries outside of Cameroon, including the USA. Dr. Aubrey will also demonstrate how Bimbia is not only drawing the African Enslaved Descendant Diaspora back to Cameroon, some via DNA, but also how Bimbia is quickly garnering international attention. She agrees that Bimbia may likely be the largest trade site of the enslaved on the continent of Africa.
