The United Kingdom is headed for an October 31st deadline to leave the European Union under new Conservative Prime Minister Boris Johnson, who favors a so-called “hard Brexit” in which the UK leaves the EU with no agreement. That creates a serious dilemma for Ireland, which is a solid member of the EU, and for Northern Ireland which voted to remain in the EU.

Dr. Randy Bush is international academic advisor & adjunct professor of International Relations at Butler Community College. Randy also served as executive director of the Global Learning Center from 1998-2002.
